What are the challenges?

There are ever-increasing demands on your enterprise communication

Fragmented communication & applications. Too many different systems. Stretched IT.

Big IT shift to cloud (IaaS, SaaS), across the business.

Need to be sustainable and energy efficient

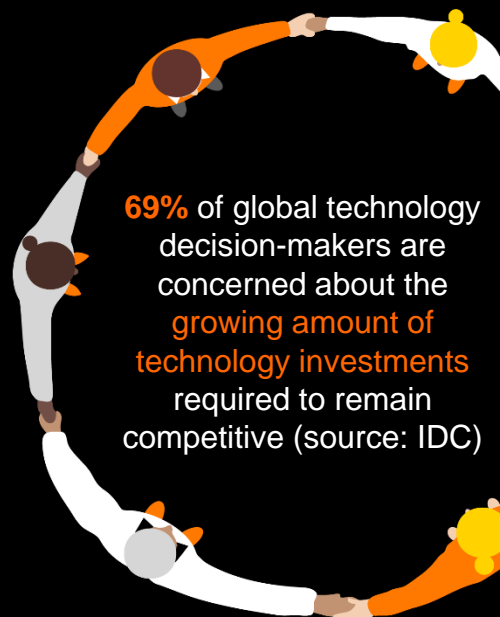

Pressure to extract value from investments exacerbated by current economic climate

Ever-increasing need for security in communications

Low adoption by employees of deployed communication technologies

69% of global technology decision-makers are concerned about the growing amount of technology investments required to remain competitive (source: IDC)
